All pets undergoing surgery at Happy Pets Animal Hospital are required to have presurgical blood work testing. This will check for pre-existing medical conditions which may increase the risk of complications during surgery.

Here at Happy Pets Animal Hospital we use isoflurane gas which is a safe gas anesthetic used in veterinary medicine and is one of the same anesthetic gas used for many human procedures. We also use state-of-the-art surgical monitoring equipment to monitor your pet's blood pressure, temperature, heart rate and oxygen levels during surgery. Our hospital provides pain medication for pets before, during, and after surgical procedures, we will place an intravenous catheter to administer fluids while under anesthesia. IV fluids will aid the body in stabilizing internal organs and blood pressure, and aid in metabolizing the anesthesia more efficiently. Along with shaving the hair at the IV catheter site, we may also shave other areas including the surgical site for surgical prepping and cleansing and also to monitor the site after the procedure is perform.

Pre-Anesthetic Physical Exam and Anesthetic Monitoring (Included)

Pre-Anesthetic Blood Work

Pre-anesthetic blood work checks the internal organs and blood count and is a vital part of safe anesthesia. Help us provide the best level of care for your pet by choosing to perform blood work prior to anesthesia or sedation.
